QUARTERLY REPORT OF THE STATISTICAL BUREAU-A CAUCUS OF THE REPUBLICAN CONGRESSMEN-GEN. GEART'S POSITION-THE COURSE OF CONGRESS-THE MESSAGE-PERSONAL.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBENS.

Washington, Thursday, Nov. 29 The first quarterly report of the Bureau of Statistics of the Treasury Department, under Mr. Delmar, apdeared to-day. It really embraces nearly all from that Bureau which will have any beaing upon the Secretary's report. According to this report, the aggregate values of imports and exports for the months of July, August, September, and October, 1866, as far as returns have been received, stand as follows:

Sestember 16,148,056 Total $82,625,663 These figures exhibit the starting fact that our imports exceed our exports to the amount of $44,931,956 for the first four months of the fiscal year 1867, and when it is remembered that the imports are as a gold, and the exports at a currency, valuation, the difference becomes yet more alarming. The report, as a whole, is not what Congress and the people at large had a right to expect. Especially is this the case as regards the statement of imports and exports. Instead of furnishing a statement of the high articles—such as cotton, wool, and iron, articles imported and exported, with their quantities and values—Director Delmar gives, perhaps unintention-values—Director Delinar gives, perhaps unintentionally, simply the total value of imports or exports at the various ports of entry, a statement utterly valueless to the manufacturing industries of the country, in whose interest we believe the Bureau was organized. The Republican members of Congress will hold a preliminary caucus to-morrow evening at half-past six o'clock. One of the most frequent subjects of discussion in Congress circles is the choice of a successor of Senator Foster as President of the Senate. No new names are presented, and the indications are that the Senator Foster as President of the Senate. No new names are presented, and the indications are that the contest will be between Senators Wade of Ohio, An-thony of Rhode Island, and Pomeroy of Kausas. Senator Sherman is also named for the position by the more Conservative class, but it is highly probable he will not allow his name to be used.

Among the prominent arrivals to-day were Judge Orth, M. C. from Indiana, and Samuel Wilkinson of New-York. Senator Lane of Indiana arrived to-day. He gives it as his opinion that there will be no formi-dable attempt on the part of Congress to impeach the

The general talk of Radical Congressmen now here is that a reasonable period will be given the Southern States to adopt the Constitutional Amendment, when, if they fail to do this, they will be legislated for like other Territories.

It is stated that Congress will appoint a joint committee, at an early day, to visit New-Orleans, and to investigate the riots there; and the report of the Committee on Retrenchment and Reform in Government offices will be promptly acted upon.

The mass welcome to Congress has been, after consultation with members now here, postponed until Monday, Dec. 3. This step is taken because the majority of Congress will not have arrived until that day. It is stated that special trains will start from Alexandria, Baltimore, and other points. The Committee on Invitations to the mass welcome to Congress have invited President Johnson to be present on the occasion. They have also requested a holiday for the clerks in the Departments to enable a holiday for the clerks in the Departments to enable them to attend in a body.

The Republican to-day editorially says:
Somebody has telegraphed to the country that President Johnson will propose several amenaturents to the Constitution in his fortheoming Message. The idea is obtained from the fact that Mr. Johnson proposed stuffier measures when in Congress. That does not follow. Mr. Johnson's present opinion is that the Constitution has been "amended" mough, and that it ought not to be touched any more.

It is stated that the committee having in charge the increase of salaries of clerks will introduce a bill early in this session, dating the increase back to July 1, 1865, three months after the increased pay of Members 1865, three months after the increased pay of Members of Congress and the employes at the Capitol began.

The release by Judge Hall of Delaware of Messi

Keys, Byren and Stowers, the persons convicted by a military commission of the murder of three Union sol-fiers in South Carolina, some months ago, has created a good deal of comment here in official circles. Win-H. Ivescott of South Carolina, and Secretary Browning, were the counsel for the defendants, and the report of the evidence taken by the Commission who tried the prisoners, shows the murder to have been most shocking in its character.

Gen. Grant of late has been more free and open in his opinions of the political situation than heretofore. In conversations with prominent Rebels he is frank in telling them that they have been enemies to the Government, and are now virtually on parole. He indorses the Constitutional Amendment, and says it is the best terms the South can expect.

The work of housing the gunboats laid up in the Province will be completed this week. The following will be the distribution of the boats for the Winter: The Huron at Toronto, the Cherub and Prince Alfred at Goderich, the Britomarte and Rescue at Dunnville, the Hercules and Royal at Kingston. The crews are to be formed into a marine brigade. At a meeting of the Executive Council, yesterday, they decided that some of these boats should have been kept ready for service during the Winter. The sixty witnesses for the Crown arrived to-day, and were ordered to Sweetsburg. The Hon. B. The time of a large number of the regulars now stationed in the Province expires during the coming month. The Government has ordered that the men be detained until the country is in a more settled condition.

Sixteen pieces of artillers and a large quantity of ammunition were forwarded to-day to St. Catherines.

CONDITION OF THE EROTHERHOOD IN IRELAND. In a recent speech at Columbus, Ohio, Capt. O'Shea, an agent of the Irish Brotherhood, who recently returned from Ireland, after having suffered an imprisonment of seven months, said that he left New-York for Ireland in August, 1865, taking with him a considerable quantity of swords, revolvers and ammunition, which he was pleased to say were still in safe keeping, for use in the struggle soon to come off. He found, during his visits to various parts of Ireland, that the Brotherhood there numbered over 300,000 men, of whom one-half were well drilled. Many were armed, but still they were in great want of tools. Many of the (atholic priests favored the cause openly and some secretly, and the Presbyterians of the North were, he said, as true to Ireland to-day as their fathers were in 1798. At the time he arrived in the country there were seven regiments of troops that were ready to fight for the freedom of Ireland whenever the blow should be struck, but these regiments have all been sent to distant and remote places. One of them, however, is in Canada. He slse stated that the Irish Brotherhood had in England sixty depots of Greek fire, ready for imagent of the Irish Brotherhood, who recently returned from England sixty depots of Greek fire, ready for im-

There were also two companies from abroad. Washington No. 2 of Feekskill, Wm. Hodson, Foreman, came on the steamer Issac P. Smith, chartered for the purpose accompanied by a band of music, and Columbia Hose Co. No. 1 of Peekskill as tender. There was for three issurs a "hifeb" in the proceedings, and finally the Youkers Fire Department ruled the Peekskill Company out, because the inch-maxic prescribed by regulations would not fit their smaller hose.

There was a general feeling of dissatisfaction at this ruling, and the Washington returned to the boat and disembarked without the proffer of an escort—a circumstance reflecting little credit upon the Youkers firemen. They had it all to themselves, however, and the contest resulted as follows: First prize to the Lady Washington No. 2 played 166 feet: second prize to Protection No. 1, 185 feet. The prizes were two handsome silver trumpets, elaborately chased and ornamented. There were about 1,000 persons congregated near the Sherman House.

He coofly informed me that he did not think that the civil authorities would call on me, and that "the men deserved hanging. He advised me to not go near the jail with my men, "as there might be a row, and some good cliriens kurt."

I talked with the jailor every day during the past week in regard to the intractened attack on the jail, and was so satisfied in my own mind that the strack would be made, that I offered to send a guard to the jail and protect it, but he declined my offer, asying that he would notify me in time should an attack be made. The civil authorities were all notified, and were well mobilized with all the facts. They could have presented the mobilize of the jail and the hanging of three men, as it was generally sudcressood and known that had I been called upon in time by the civil authorities, to protect the jail, the attack would have been shandoned.

The publication of the telegraphic instructions sent me by the tieneral commanding, in yesterday's Journal, satisfied all parties that I would not be called on to protect the jail by the civil authorities. The men hung were notorious seconducted, and the fact of their having been hing is a great relief to the people of the surrounding country, as they have committed every act in the calcular of crime.

I have no doubt that, had I been called upon by the civil authorities during the attack upon the jail, I should have had a smoot sight, as a majority of the usen were armed with doubte-barried guos and with revolvers, and were determined to take these men at all hazards. Considerable excitement prevailed in the morning, whon the news of the hanging was circulated, but not a single citizen said a word in opposition to the action of the mob, but excited over und sustained it. Very respectively rear obedient servant.

I notified and continued the civil authorities every day during the pest week, as I had heard the runner 10 days ago, and was possiblent that if not prevented the men would be lung. The civil authorities all knew of the threatened attack, and also knew several of the ring leaders of the mols. Some 75 or 60 men started for this place hast Wednesday night—the night first set to carry their threat of hanging three men, into execution—but they were nest by parties from town, who were under the impression that I had orders to protect the jail. This report that night and lung them.

Lat Wednesday night I visited the County Attorney in company with Mr. J. M. Fidler, and notified him of the antierated attack on the juil that night, and also informed him of the telegraphic instructions that I had received from the General commanding regarding it.
